World Bank

The World Bank is a vital source of financial and technical assistance to developing countries around the world. World Bank is made up of two unique development institutions owned by 186 member countries—the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD) and the International Development Association (IDA). Each institution plays a different but collaborative role to advance the vision of an inclusive and sustainable globalization. The IBRD focuses on middle income and creditworthy poor countries, while IDA focuses on the poorest countries in the world. Together we provide low-interest loans, interest-free credits and grants to developing countries for a wide array of purposes that include investments in education, health, public administration, infrastructure, financial and private sector development, agriculture, and environmental and natural resource management.

【Lecturer】

Hideki Mori, Manager for the Bank's Young Program (MBA Graduate of Duke University).
Jeannie Crist, IFC Human Resources Officer (MBA Graduate of Columbia University).
