

A Workshop

International History, Transnational History, Global History
A Search for International Order.

Organized by : Waseda Institute of Asia-Pacific Studies,
International History Research Group

1. Aim

In recent years more works in international history have taken multiple perspectives. Some scholars focus upon non-state actors and orient toward transnational history. Others take a multi-disciplinary approach and examine the field and topic that have not been covered fully by conventional and traditional history narrative. This workshop seeks to discuss and explore a new orientation in writing and teaching of international history.

2. Venue

Date : June 17, Friday, 17:00-19:00

Place : Room 608, building 19, Waseda University

3. Program and Participants

Associate Professor, Tomoko Akami (Australian National University)

“International history: a seek for constructive inter-disciplinary degree/programs and research projects in relations with international relations and international law”

Associate Professor Patrick O. Cohrs (Yale University)

“The Search for a New Global Order after World War I”

Professor Sayuri Guthrie Shimizu (Rice University)

“The Search for a New Global Maritime Order After World War II.”

Commentators:

Dr. Takashi Saikawa (Waseda University)

Dr. Sakiko Kaiga (International Christian University)

Moderator:

Hatsue Shinohara (Waseda University)

4. Language : English