Post-Doctoral Resident Fellowship at the Chicago Center for Contemporary Theory

The Chicago Center for Contemporary Theory at the University of Chicago announces a residential fellowship program for the 2006-07 academic year. The Center--which aims to promote comparative, interdisciplinary discussion of social processes and political practices in the contemporary world--will accept applications from scholars in the social sciences and humanities who have completed the Ph.D., are pursuing research projects relevant to the 3CT concerns, and would benefit from participation in its interdisciplinary projects and activities. These residential fellowships are unpaid and are open to faculty members on leave from other institutions as well as to independent scholars. Fellows will be expected to reside in Chicago and base themselves at the Center, which will provide an office for the 2006-07 academic year; official appointments will be made through appropriate academic departments. Additional information and application instructions are available at <http://ccct.uchicago.edu>. The application deadline is April 13 with notification in early May.
