■ Please discuss your course registration plan with your coordinator before the 1st course registration period

Waseda University offers three chances (1st to 3rd) of course registration periods, but please note that the number of available courses may decrease due to overenroll as the course registration period goes from 1st to 3rd. Therefore, we strongly recommend you to discuss with your home university's coordinator about your course registration plan before the 1st course registration period so that you can register all courses that you want to take in the 1st course registration period. This is very important so that your credit transfer to your home institution succeeds. Please also assume that you may not be able to take all planned courses due to overenroll. So please consult with your coordinator and consider about "second choices" within the "Rules of Course Registration" on the next page.

■ The Course Registration of SPSE and SILS courses

If you want to register courses offered by SPSE and SILS in 1st registration period, please use the application form (<https://my.waseda.jp/application/detail/application-detail?communityContentLinkId=646338100>). In 3rd registration period, you can register SPSE and SILS courses on the web system as well as SOC courses. However, please note that it could be full already before you register. In addition, each school has their own course registration rules. For example, you are allowed to register only 1 course offered by SILS on the web system in the 3rd registration period. For more details, please make sure to read and follow their instructions shown on each school's website.

■ The Course Registration of other Schools

Please check the submission period and methods carefully when registering for courses. Please make sure to check which Days and Periods each course will meet when you plan to register for courses offered by other schools (and centers). If you "double register" the courses to be held on the same day(s) and period(s), the SOC course will be automatically cancelled.

Rules of Course Registration

① Number of credits

- SOC exchange students can register up to 24 credits per semester.
*Please note that it does not necessarily guarantee that students can take 24 credits in the registration period. (We have a random selection system. For more details, please refer to ③Over-enrollment as below.)
*DD students can register up to 28 credits per semester, 48 credits per year.
- There is no minimum number of credits to be registered but students are encouraged to take 6 courses per week (10 hours) to maintain VISA status.

② Course drop

- You can drop courses only during the 3rd registration period.
No cancelation before/after that period will be accepted. If you miss the 3rd registration period to drop off and do not attend the registered course(s), you may get “F” for the course(s) in the end. However, it won’t be shown up on the “Transcript of Academic record” which will be sent to your home university. (“F” grade courses will be shown up on the “*Transcript of GPA” but it won’t be sent to your home university.)
- You can drop courses offered by all schools. However, GEC courses that require additional enrollment fees and some other courses cannot be dropped.
- Center for Japanese Language (CJL) has a different schedule about course dropping. You can see their schedule on their website. The maximum number of CJL courses that student can register is 8 credits per semester.
- Even if you are planning to drop courses during the 3rd registration period, you are not allowed to register for more than the limit of 24 credits/semester during the 1st and 2nd registration periods beforehand.
- Once you dropped the courses, they won’t appear on the list of your course registration web system anymore.

*At Waseda University, grades transcript and GPA transcript are separated. The grades transcript does not show failure courses nor GPA. What is sent to your home university after the Waseda semester is the grades transcript.

③ Over-enrollment

- Please be reminded that some/many courses you have submitted for registration can be overenrolled, which means there are more students than the max number of enrollments of the course(s). The over-enrollment happens frequently at Waseda University. When such an over-enrollment happens, the web registration system picks up randomly by lottery.
For example, “Japanese for ‘Zero’ Beginners”(CJL course) is very popular every year and many exchange students get overenrolled.
- Please make sure if your chosen courses were successfully registered by checking the registration status as updated to “Registered” on MyWaseda after the registration announcement is made.

④ Course schedule

- You cannot register for courses overlapping in the same day and same period. If the courses you’ve submitted for registration were scheduled in the same day and same period, only one course can be registered, which means, if it’s the duplication of SOC course and the other school’s course, the other school’s course will be picked up and registered automatically without being asked by the system. The SOC course will be dropped in this case.
- Even if you could have successfully registered a course(A) during the 1st course registration period, and then found another interesting course(B) which will meet on the same day and same period, you are not able to replace the course A with B during the 2nd course registration period. In this case, you need to wait until the 3rd registration period for dropping the course A. You will also need to have in mind that the course B is gone by being filled up by the enrollment limit when the 3rd registration period begins.

⑤ Additional Fees

- If you have registered for courses which charges the additional fees, you are supposed to receive a bill by email to your Waseda e-mail account and to be instructed about how to pay the bill. Please check your Waseda e-mail account at fixed intervals, or set up an automatic transfer to the one which you regularly use.
- When received such a bill, please be sure to pay between October 15th (Wed.) and October 20th (Mon.) 23:59. If you think any such emails don't come by mistake before the payment period, please contact the SOC Office immediately.
