

Mr. Cameron Johnson

Adjunct Professor
School for Professional Studies
New York University in Shanghai

Waseda Institute of Asia-Pacific Studies Colloquium Series
Series on Global Capital Market and Economic Development in Asia

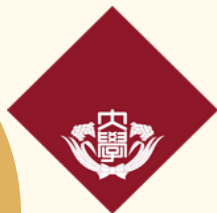

EXPLORING THE GEOPOLITICS OF SUPPLY CHAINS AMIDST US-CHINA COMPETITION

October 1, 2024

Tuesday | 17:00 - 18:40

Building 19, Room 710, Waseda University

In the context of increasing geopolitical contestations, all levels of governance struggle with supply chain policies and the need to balance national security, societal, and economic priorities. This talk explores how policy and supply chain dynamics are intertwined by using industry examples and the challenges they face, particularly in the US-China competition dynamic. How are companies and industries reacting to the trade war? Is decoupling from China possible? Does friend-shoring work?

Moderator
Professor Tomoo Kikuchi
GSAPS, Waseda University

Free and open to the public.
Please register here.

