

Waseda Institute of Asia-Pacific Studies Colloquium Series
Asia Security Seminar Series

Command of Commerce: America's Enduring Economic Power Advantage Over China

January 29, 2025 (Wed)
13:10-14:50

Building 19, Room 710, Waseda University

The talk provides a systematic reevaluation of the balance of economic power between the U.S. and China. The conventional wisdom is that China's economic power is very close to America's and that Washington cannot undertake a broad economic cutoff of China without hurting itself as much or more. This talk demonstrates the conventional wisdom is wrong on both fronts.

Stephen G. Brooks

Professor of Government at Dartmouth

Moderator:
Professor Chikako Ueki
GSAPS, Waseda University

Free and open to faculty and students of Waseda University.
Please register here.

