International Studies Program
Graduate School of Asia-Pacific Studies, Waseda University
Admissions Policy

Focusing on the Asia-Pacific region, GSAPS seeks not only to conduct interdisciplinary research from the global and regional perspectives in the fields of regional history, politics, economics, industry, business management, society, culture and various international concerns, but also to deepen understanding of a growing Asia-Pacific region, and to mold future experts and researchers who can assume responsibility of the region's future.

GSAPS seeks students from both the domestic and international arenas, who are keen to learn and motivated to excel, and aim for a better future for the global society.

For our MA Program, GSAPS welcomes application not only from undergraduate students, but professionals who have relevant work experience, and seek to further enhance the well-being of global society, instead of just one's home country.

In respect of admissions evaluation, on top of agreeing to the fundamental ideology of the Graduate School, GSAPS attaches great importance to the following three factors.

1. Understanding of various global problems and the knowledge to identify and suggest solutions
2. Ability to think rationally and logically
3. Communication skills, including language ability required globally

Students who pass the 5BM screening will take GSAPS Project Research and lecture courses during their fourth year at SILS. After that, they will officially enroll in GSAPS and aim to complete the program in one year.

*To complete the program in one year, it is required that you have earned 10 credits from GSAPS lecture courses prior to your enrollment at GSAPS.

* For Applicants who have graduated from several universities or are participating in a Double Degree Program between SILS and another university, please contact the GSAPS admissions office well in advance of the application period.

 - If the transcript includes grades for only 3 semesters: at least 54 credits must be earned.
- (5) Applicants must obtain recommendation letters from two full-time SILS faculty members certifying their academic abilities and knowledge.

Even if the applicant passes the entrance examination, admission will be revoked if the applicant withdraws from SILS or fails to meet the following conditions:

As of one year prior to the date of enrollment, the applicant must have been enrolled in the School of International Liberal Studies for at least three years, must have earned at least 104 credits toward graduation, and must have a GPA of 3.0 or higher as stated on the Transcript of Academic Record/GPA issued by Waseda University.

[Important Notes for This Admission]

2. Successful applicants for this program are required to earn at least 10 credits from the courses offered by Graduate School of Asia-Pacific Studies (GSAPS) during the one-year period prior to official enrollment in GSAPS. If you fail to earn at least 10 credits before enrollment, please note that it will not be possible to complete the program within a one-year framework; students must instead aim to complete the program within a two-year framework.
3. Faculty of Waseda University including Waseda University Junior/Senior High School, Waseda University Honjo Senior High School and Art and Architecture School are not able to become a student of the University, although there are a few exceptions according to the university regulations. 4. Screening Method

The decision whether to accept or reject will be based on the results of comprehensive evaluation of all the required documents submitted and an interview.

- GSAPS Admissions Office does not accept submission of application documents in person.
- The contents of application documents once submitted cannot be changed.
- Documents will NOT be returned once submitted, regardless of any special circumstances on the part of the applicant.
- The interview will be held on the Waseda campus.

- Even if the applicants choose English as a medium of screening/thesis, interviewers may ask questions in Japanese.

5. Project Research

Students at GSAPS take small-sized project research seminars held under the guidance of their academic advisors, where they will learn and master skills to prepare and complete their thesis, to compile, analyze and review relevant information fully and to understand the research methodology. In principle, students belong to and work under one project research seminar respectively through all the school years since the 7th semester while enrolled in SILS.

Therefore, please deliberately choose the project research seminar/professor fit to your own research field/interest from the list in the next page by checking the information provided on the websites at the bottom of the next page. Generally, all the applicants need to input their own choice(s) (the first/second preference) for project research on the online application. Furthermore, in your fourth year in the School of International Liberal Studies, you will be taking courses offered by both the School of International Liberal Studies and GSAPS. Therefore, please check the syllabus of our graduate school and select an appropriate Project Research course and faculty member to ensure that your class schedule does not overlap.

The final selection of the project research takes into comprehensive consideration the applicant's research plan, desire and all the other documents submitted during the application. Please note that you may not necessarily be assigned to your desired project research seminar/professor.

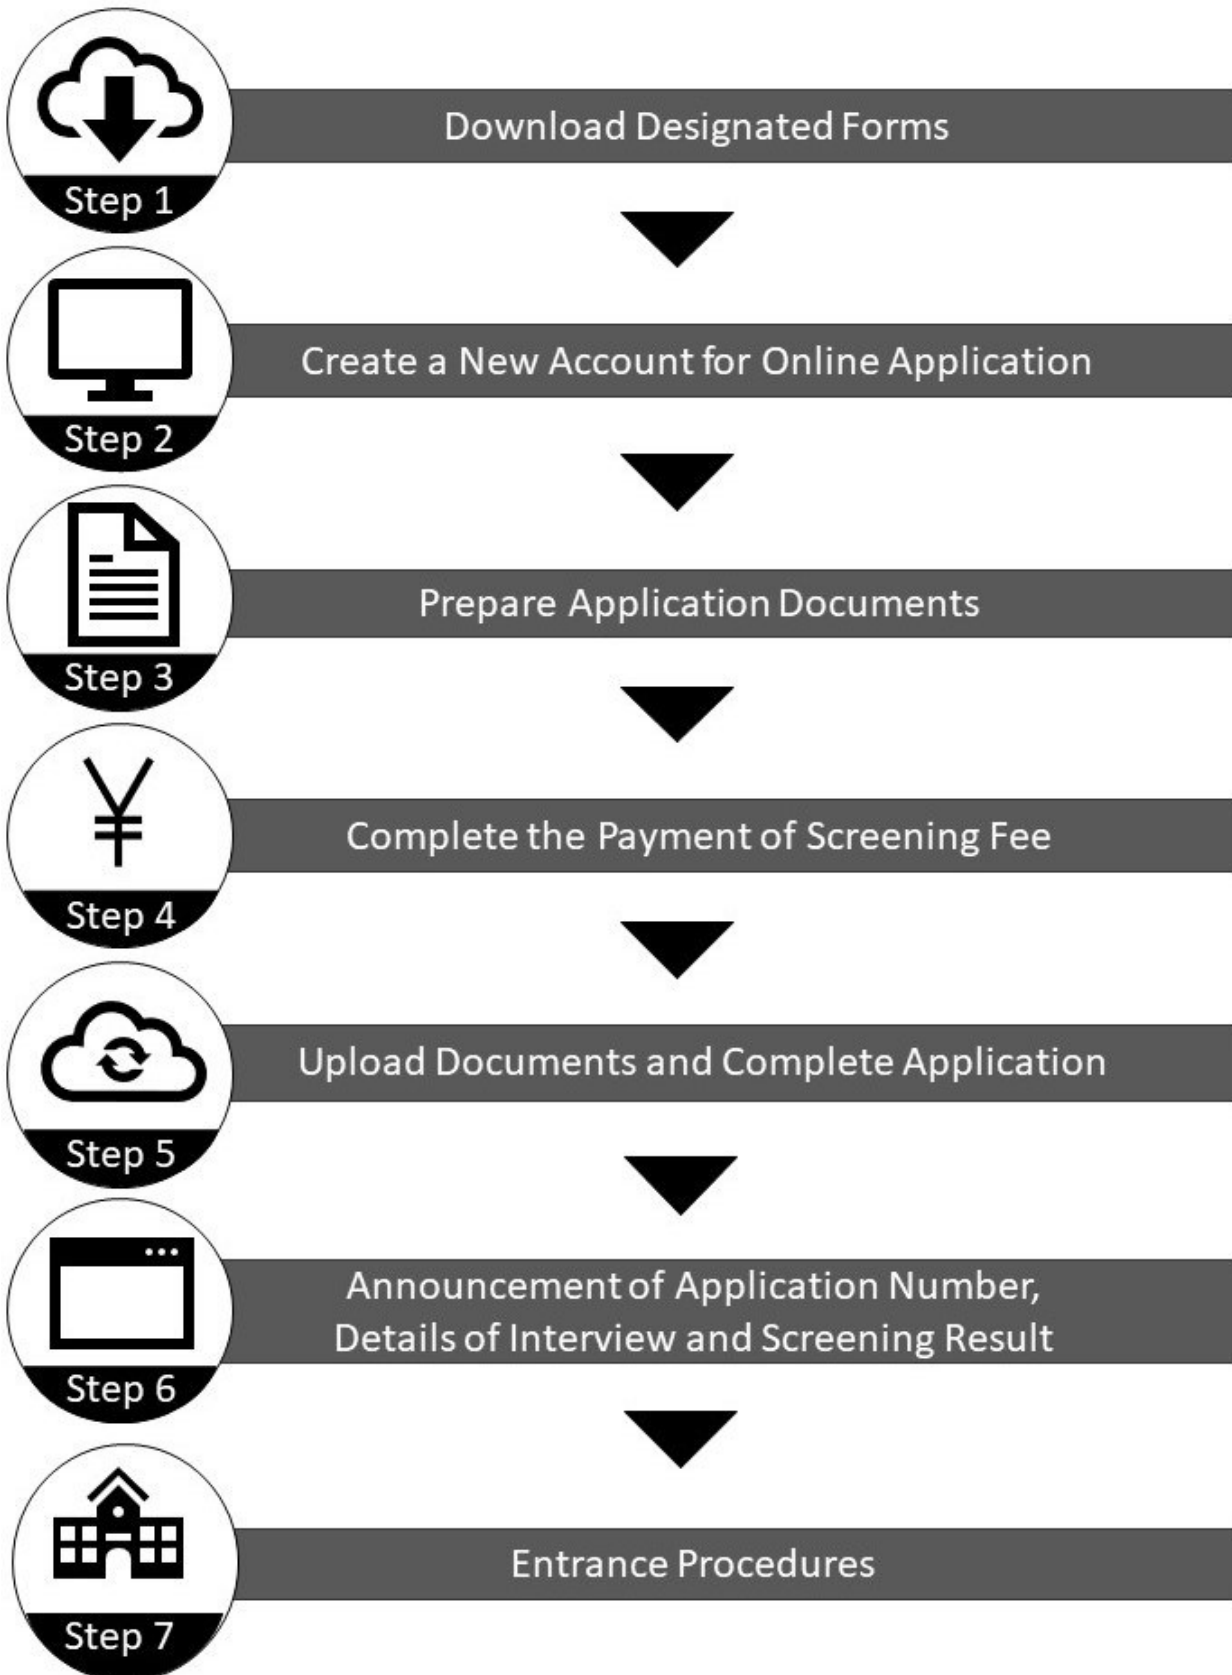

Project Research Seminars Available for September 2027

*Available project research seminars are subject to change. If there will be any, we will notify on our website before the application period.
