

Curriculum Overview

Our three majors are defined through credit requirements that specify a mix between political science and economics.

	Introduction	Foundation	Specialization
Political Science	Political Analysis International Relations Public Philosophy	Contemporary/Japanese Politics	Political Communication, Political Institutions, Political Behavior, Political Economy, etc.
		Comparative Politics	Comparative Democratization, Politics of Western Europe, Politics of East Asia, etc.
		International Politics	International Organization, International Political Economy, International Security, etc.
		Public Policy	Public Policy, Public Administration, Local Government, NGOs, etc.
		Political History and Political Thought	Japanese Political Thought, Western Political Thought, Constitutionalism, International History, etc.
Economics	Microeconomics Macroeconomics	Economic Policy	Labor Economics, Health Economics, Environmental Economics, Political Economics, Law and Economics, etc.
		International Economics	Development Economics, Asian Economy, Spatial Economics, Resources and Food, etc.
		Intermediate Micro/Macroeconomics	Japanese Economy, Advanced Micro/Macroeconomics, Welfare Economics, Public Economics, etc.
		Finance	Money and Banking, Empirical Finance, International Finance, Public Finance, etc.
		Economic History	Economic History of Japan, Global Economic History, Economic History of Asia, Comparative Institutional Analysis, etc.
Methodology	Game Theory Statistics	Mathematical Analysis	Advanced Game Theory, Behavioral Economics, Experimental Economics, Mathematical Economics, etc.
		Econometrics	Quantitative Analysis, Network Analysis, Applied Econometrics, Time Series Analysis, Panel Data Analysis, etc.
Seminars	Basic Seminar	Intermediate Seminar	Advanced Seminar, Thesis
Academic Writing, Languages, General Studies, Internships, etc.

