

Notices on taking AY2023 Fall-semester Examinations

1. In-class written examination period is from Monday, January 22 to Saturday, January 27. For Fall semester examinations after classes end take place from Monday, January 29 to Saturday, February 3.
2. Be sure to place your student ID on the table (aisle side) during the examination. Students who do not bring their student ID will not be allowed to take the examination, regardless of the reason. Furthermore, students will not be allowed to take the examinations if their student ID photo is worn or damaged to the point that it cannot be used to confirm the student's identity.
3. Removing the examination questions, answer sheet (even if it is blank), attendance card and other such items from the examination site is prohibited and doing so will be considered cheating (except for those courses where this is allowed).
4. In principle, two examinees will be assigned to each table and they are expected to sit at far ends of table.
5. Parties other than students taking the test should not enter the examination site once the examination has started.
6. The only items that can be placed on the table are the student ID, writing materials and a watch. (Pen cases cannot be placed on the table.)
7. Items that can be brought to examinations are not indicated here. Be sure to follow the instructions provided by the instructor in charge of the particular class.

When "Referring to textbooks is prohibited," all textbooks, reference materials, notes and other materials must remain in your book bag (back pack) and not inside your desk. Placing text books and other such materials inside the desk during the examination will be considered as cheating.

Even when "All Items are permitted," this does not include computers, mobile phones and electronic dictionaries (except when special permission is granted). The use of such items will be considered as cheating.

The borrowing and lending of items allowed into the examination site is still prohibited and will be considered as cheating.

8. Any cheating will be harshly punished, including the invalidation of all course work and suspension. This could result in the student not being able to graduate within four years. If the examination administrator warns a student about suspicious behavior during the examination, this will not be seen as an interruption of the examination.

9. Be sure to turn OFF your mobile phones or any other electronic devices including smart watches and put them in your book bag. Be aware that any sounds coming from a watch, mobile phone, computer or other device during the examination will be considered as cheating. Furthermore, the use of a mobile phone instead of a watch is prohibited.
10. No one will be allowed into the examination site 20 minutes after the examination has started, regardless of the reason. Leaving the examination site is only allowed after 30 minutes have elapsed from the start of the examination and when the test administrator indicates that leaving the site is allowed.
11. The examination schedule for the same subject will differ depending on the class. So be sure to confirm the examination schedule based on your particular class and instructor.
12. Refer to the separate “AY2023 Fall-semester In-class examination time schedule” to confirm the locations for your examinations. Students will not be graded on examinations taken in the incorrect classrooms. For courses which are conducting online examinations, please refer to announcement from each instructor for the details.
13. If you are unable to take the examination due to illness or some other legitimate reason, bring the appropriate certificate (explained below) to the administrative office for the School of Political Science and Economics to determine if an absentee examination can be taken. Confirm the particulars for taking an absentee examination from the “Fall-semester absentee Examinations” provided separately. If you would like to ask any consideration for the courses which are conducting online examinations, you need to apply to the instructors directly. The instructors in charge will make the final decision on whether to consider your circumstance and how to deal with it. Please refer to the following URL for the details.
