II 次の英文を読み、設問に答えなさい。

Jack saw the old man many years ago. 7College, girls, career and life itself got in the way. Jack moved across the country (1) his dreams. He started an architectural design office the previous year, and in the rush of his busy life, he had little time to think about the past and often no time to spend with his wife and son. He was busy working (2) his future.

(3) the phone, his mother told him, "Mr. Belser died last night. The funeral is tomorrow."

"It's been so long since I thought of him. I thought he died years ago," Jack said.

"Well, he didn't (4) you," his Mom told him. "Every time he saw me he'd asked how you were doing. He'd tell me about 8all the days you spent over 'his side of the fence' as he put it."

Memories flashed through Jack's mind as he remembered his childhood days. "He's the one who taught me carpentry," he said. "I wouldn't be in this business if it weren't for him. [ウ]"

"You know, Jack, after your father died, Mr. Belser stepped in to make sure you had a man's influence in your life," she said.

9Jack told his mother that he would be there for the funeral the next day.

10As busy as Jack was, he kept his word. Mr. Belser's funeral was small and uneventful. He had no children of his own, and most of his relatives were gone.

The night before Jack had to return home, {next door / stopped by / he and his Mom / the old house / to see / one more} time.

Stepping into the house, Jack felt like he was stepping (5). The house was exactly as he remembered, and every step held memories. Every picture, every piece of furniture ... Jack stopped suddenly.

"What's wrong, Jack?" his Mom asked.

"The box is gone," he said.

"What box?" she asked.

" あの人が鍵をかけたままにした金の小箱が机の上にあったんだ . I probably asked him a thousand times (6) was inside. All he would ever tell me was, 'The thing I value most,'" Jack said.

It was gone. Everything about the house was exactly (7) Jack remembered it, except for the box. He figured someone from the Belser family had taken it.

Two weeks later, returning home from work, Jack discovered a note in his mailbox. "Signature required on a package. Please stop by the main post office (8) the next three days," the note read.

The next day Jack collected the package. It was (9) and looked like it had been mailed a hundred years ago. But 11the sender's name caught his attention. "Harold Belser," it read.

Jack took the package out to his car and opened it. There inside was the gold box and an envelope. Jack's hands shook as he read the note inside.

"Upon my death, please forward this to Jack Bennett. It's the thing I valued most in my life." A small key was taped to the letter. His heart racing, Jack opened the box. There inside he found a beautiful gold pocket watch.

He carefully opened its cover, (10) had these words on the inside: "Jack, thanks for your time! — Harold Belser."

"The thing he valued most was ... (11)."

Jack held the watch for a few minutes, then called his office and cleared his appointments for the next two days. "Why?" his assistant, Janet, asked.

"I need to spend some time with my son," he said. "Oh, and Janet ... thanks for your time!"
