Summary:

The Global Connections program offers international students an outstanding study abroad experience. Our high-quality academic courses allow students to focus on current global challenges from different perspectives, explore creative ways to solve problems and discover how to produce positive change. Students, if interested, will have the opportunity to volunteer at local non-profit organizations. This program is offered jointly by the UW Jackson School of International Studies and UW International & English Language Programs.

Opportunities for Learning Through Experience

Interested students have the opportunity to enroll in a course that incorporates service with the local community alongside structured preparation and reflection opportunities. In these “community-engaged” courses, students will volunteer with local area non-profit organizations over the course of a quarter. These volunteer opportunities are tied to academic coursework and intended to address concerns that are identified and articulated by the community.

Students also have many opportunities to participate in student organizations, intramural sports, and extracurricular activities. They may also attend events led by the Foundation for International Understanding Through Students (FIUTS), a campus organization that brings together international students and domestic UW students interested in international friendships.

Facilitation Plan

Waseda students have the opportunity to meet regularly with an academic advisor regarding registration, academic progress, and area activities. Students will also have the opportunity to participate in a quarterly social activity and a closing ceremony at the end of the program.

Credits (24-30 semester credit hours):

(Waseda will issue final credits for study done abroad. We assume this will be 24-30 semester credit hours and that students will take at least the minimum number of courses required to qualify as a fulltime international students. Please let us know if this raises any difficulties.)

Autumn quarter:

15 academic quarter credits, plus 1 continuing education unit

Winter quarter:

15 academic quarter credits
