

~現代短歌を詠んでみよう~

Modern Tanka Online Workshop -Let's try composing modern Tanka together-

「短歌」に触れたことはありますか?五・七・五・七・七の31音で作る、日本の伝統的な詩の形だということは、なんとなく知っている人が多い のではないでしょうが、微妙な長さで難しそう…そう思った方もいらっしゃると思います。しかし実は、短歌は今の私たちが使っている言葉でも 詠むことができます。今回は、大正時代から続く、伝統ある大学公認サークル「早稲田短歌会」のみなさまをお招きし、オンライン短歌ワーク ショップを実施します。はじめての方もこの機会に短歌に触れ、実際に詠歌にもチャレンジして、参加者同士で交流を深めてみませんか?

Have you ever read a "Tanka"? Tanka are a traditional form of Japanese poetry, and there are many who are probably somewhat familiar with its 5-7-5-7-7 total of 31 syllable structure. You might wonder "Fitting things into this odd length looks difficult...". But actually you can write Tanka using the words we use in everyday life. This time, the ICC has invited the traditional university official circle "Waseda Tanka-kai", which has existed since the Taisho era, to give an online Tanka workshop. This is a great chance for those new to Tanka to get a first-hand experience of it and make deep new connections with others while composing your own work of art.

WasedaTanka-kai has been an active circle since the Taisho era (with a few small breaks along the way). Its current activities are mainly weekly "Uta-kai" (meetings reviewing original Tanka poems), Tanka study groups and a meeting for jointly reviewing for continually evolving works. Every year Tanka-kai hosts a summer camp together with other student Tanka societies from all over Japan. Tanka-kai's official bulletin "Waseda Tanka" celebrates the publication of its 50th issue this year. There are around 40 members currently in the club. Membership is not limited to Waseda students, with others including students from Tokyo University, Keio University, and Tokyo University of Foreign Studies.
