

Public Response to Government Policy and International Interventions

◆ Date and Time

Saturday, January 11, 2020, 13:00-18:00

◆ Venue

Room #203, Building #3, Waseda Campus

◆ Participation

Free, no reservation required

◆ Language

English

◆ Audience

Students, faculty and staff, the general public

◆ Keynote Speaker (at Panel 2 on PKO)

Dr. Lisa Hultman, Uppsala University

“The Effects of Peacekeeping: from Mission-Level Success to Micro-Level Outcomes”

Agenda

Global issues we face today vary from social unrest caused by government extremism to full-fledged civil war. The 5th Waseda ORIS International Symposium for Junior Researchers aims to address these issues, employing cutting-edge research methods developed in political science. This symposium features a leading scholar in United Nations (UN) peacekeeping and political violence, Dr. Lisa Hultman from Uppsala University, Sweden.

The first panel explores how and when government repressive policy on minorities/foreign workers causes social unrest and public oppositions to the government. Panelists discuss political phenomena such as electoral manipulation in authoritarian regimes, government policy on foreign workers, social movements and violent protests.

The second panel starts with the keynote address by Dr. Hultman. The talk introduces her recent work on the local economic effects of peacekeeping, and puts this in perspective by discussing the larger peacekeeping literature and its measures of mission-level success vs micro-level outcomes. Following her talk, presentation 1 investigates whether the nationality of the force commander with reference to the peacekeeper had an influence on the risk to that peacekeeper. Presentation 2 examines how the diversity of troops in UN peacekeeping missions influences the performance in suppressing violence against civilians. Presentation 3 analyzes the allocation pattern of UN peacekeeping operations at the subnational level, using the geographical data on Sudan and South Sudan.

Program

13:00 | Opening Remarks: Masahiko Gemma (Vice President, Waseda University)

13:10-14:40 | Panel 1: Election, Government Policy, and Public

○ Chair: Aya Watanabe (ORIS)

1. “Violence or Nonviolence: Campaign Tactics, Government Accommodation, and Domestic Audiences”

Kana Inata (Waseda University)

Wakako Maekawa (Kobe University)

2. “The Effect of Electoral Manipulation on Autocratic Regime Durability”

Shinji Tsukada (Waseda University)

3. “Does Knowledge Affect Individual Attitudes Toward Immigrants?: Evidence From a Survey in Shizuoka”

Kohei Tabei (Waseda University)

○ Discussant: Hidekuni Washida (Toyo University)

14:40-15:00 | Coffee Break

15:00-17:40 | Panel 2: Empirical Studies on PKO

[15:00-16:00] Keynote Address: Lisa Hultman (Uppsala University)

“The Effects of Peacekeeping: from Mission-Level Success to Micro-Level Outcomes”

[16:00-16:10] Short Break

[16:10-17:40] Presentations

○ Chair: Kiyotaka Yasui (ORIS)

1. “Lacking Leadership or Just Doing Their Own Dangerous Business: Effects of Force Commander’s Leadership on Casualties of Peacekeepers Sent from the Same Country”

Norihito Kubota (National Defense Academy)

2. “Reevaluating the Effectiveness of the United Nations Peacekeeping Operations: A View of Gender Diversity on the Supply Side”

Yukako Tanaka (Sakabe) (Aoyama Gakuin University)

Kentaro Sakuwa (Aoyama Gakuin University)

3. “Location and Effectiveness of UN Peacekeeping Missions in Sudan”

Rui Asano (Waseda University)

○ Discussant: Lisa Hultman (Uppsala University)

17:40 | Closing Remarks: Takashi Yoshino (Director of ORIS)