Favourite Place at WISH?
Living room. Because people always come to our living room to play football games, mahjong or just having chat (sometimes debating about serious topics). That makes me feel like I am in a big family!

Best memory at WISH
Everything!

Whats your resolution as an RA?
Let's enjoy our time in WISH together!

TOKYO SEPTEMBER FESTIVALS

Feature

TOKYO

We are going to introduce you to festivals held in September around Tokyo. Let's make some great memories before school starts!

01.Sanriku/Ohfunatoshi Tokyo Tower Sanma (saury) fish Festival

Date: September 23rd (Saturday)
Rain or shine/cancelled in stormy weather

Time: 9:00am to 4:30pm (opening ceremony starts at 9:00am)
In order to receive sumiyaki sanma(char-grilled saury), you'll need to receive a "Sanma exchange ticket". This ticket will be distributed at the site from 7:30am.

Site: Tokyo Minato-ku Shibakouen4-2-8
Tokyo Tower
Tokyo Tower Parking special event site

Access: 5 minutes walk from Akabanebashi /
6 minutes walk from Ohnarimon / 4 minutes walk from Kamiyachou / 10 minutes walk from Daimon / 15 minutes walk from Hamamatsuchou

Fee: Free

Number of availability: 3,333 people

It originally came from Meguro sanma, but

"san(3)" from Sanriku
"san(3)" from "san"ma
"san" from Sanchityokusou(direct from the farm)
"3" from the 333m, the height of Tokyo Tower
"3" from the Showa 33, the year Tokyo Tower was built with all this, there will be 3,333 sanma will be distributed at the site.

At Meguro's Sanma Festival, you'll have to be in line for about 3 to 4 hours since there is no exchange ticket. On the other side, at the Tokyo Tower Sanma Festival, you won't have to be in line for so long. Addition to going to Tokyo Tower, why not get some tasty saury?

02.Ninomiya shrine autumn reitai festival (Ginger Festival)

Date: September 8th (Friday) pre-festival, Evening~
September 9th (Saturday) Main festival, all day

Site: Tokyo Akiruno-shi, Inside and around Ninomiya Jinjya

Access: 5 minutes walk from JR Itsukaichi-sen "Higashi Akiru" station

This is traditional festival held from 400 years ago. "Shoga(Ginger) Festival" originates from offering ginger to God from ancient times, and it is said that by eating ginger, you won't catch cold.
Street will be closed and there will be more than 200 stands on both sides of the road! Ginger fair will be held as well.
Mikoshi(portable shrine carried in festival) will go from the street to steep staircase which will lead to the shrine. This is the best part of the festival!
Kabuki(Tarditional Japanese play) will be held on 9th as well.
If you want to check out traditional Japanese Festival, this is a great opportunity!

Shibadai Jingu, Daradara Festival (Ginger Festival)

Date September 11th(Monday)~21st(Thursday)
16th: Reitai-sai(Fall Festival), Offering Traditional Dance
17th: Mikoshi carriage around cities (from 1pm, at Shidome St.)

Site: Shibadai Jingu, Tokyo Minato-ku Shibadaimon 1-12-7
Access: 5 minutes walk from JR Yamanote Line/Keihin Tohoku Line "Hamamatsu-cho" Station North exit
1 minute walk from Toei chikatetsu Asakusa/Oedo Line "Daimon" Station, A6 exit
5 minutes walk from Toei chikatetsu Mita Line "Ohnarimon" Station

"Daradara" means lazy in Japanese. Pretty lazy name, right? This was named since the festival is held for a long time. But don't look down on it. At Mikoshi carriage, which will be held on the 17th, there will be more than 20 Mikoshis that are full impacted carried around the cities. We'll recommend going on 16th and 17th since there will be a lot of people and the festival will flourish.
Like the byname (Ginger festival), Ginger fair will be held. It is said that by eating ginger, you will less likely catch a cold. You may want to eat it when the school starts.

We're looking for WISH journalists/columnists!

No special requirements, we're looking for your help at WISH times!
We have monthly meetings, and we publish (nearly) every month.
Although the newspapers are meant for internal use amongst WISH students, they are also published on the Residence Life Center webpage- so it's technically an public newspaper.
We currently publish monthly in a group of merely 6 people, and we're always looking for your help.
If you're interested, please apply from the application form!

Requirement: WISH student
Especially looking for people:

- Who loves to write
- Who's interested in becoming a writer
- Who wants to distribute news to other students
- Wants to try something new!

Apply now: (Until September 30th)
